

Book Exchange

One of our parents has had a fabulous idea—a book exchange.

Every Friday morning we will open the red fire doors ten minutes early so your children can participate.

The idea is simple - bring a book from home that you know longer want and swap it for a book that some one else has brought that you do want.

This means your children could have a huge variety of books to read at no cost.

The idea is that books are swapped but if your child gets a book they love they can keep it. However, if they wish to take another book home they would need to bring a book to school.

BRING A BOOK TAKE A BOOK

Thank you

I would like to thank all of you for being so understanding last week.

I am fully aware of how inconvenient and disruptive it can be when we have to close the school but I am sure you know I only do this when I feel there is a risk to people's safety.

Some schools opened last Wednesday then closed part way through the day.

In order to do the best we can I would be grateful if you could complete the following and return it to school as soon as possible - although I am hoping I won't need it again for a while!

I prefer you to close the school as early as possible even though there is a chance the weather may improve (as it did last year!)

I would prefer you to open and close later in the day if the weather gets worse.
